MANAGER'S REVIEW

Investment background

Global equity markets fell sharply in June (MSCI ACWI -8.4% total return in USD), completing the worst calendar first-half since the 1970s. The same was true for US Treasuries – there have been few places for investors to hide these past six months. Market focus maintained its shift from high inflation towards softer growth. Citi's global economic surprise indicator continues to signal that data is disappointing expectations. Expectations of demands destruction have led to flattening yield curves and inflation expectations continuing May's fall from the peak, the latter helped by a sharp fall in commodity prices (Brent oil -7%, copper -14%). Following more downbeat corporate guidance, the breadth of analyst earnings downgrades has begun to increase. Low volatility as an equity factor has just delivered its best 6-month relative return since 2009. With yield spreads rising to 5-year highs and the dollar rising again (DXY +3%) the predominant investor stance is evidently risk aversion. In this context, we note with some interest that share prices in several sectors considered economic lead indicators by the great macro investor Stanley Druckenmiller – Trucking, Homebuilding and Retail – have begun to bottom out and outperform the broader benchmark.

Strategy update

Performance

Despite having put quite a lot of capital into more defensive shares over the last year we are rarely that well placed when equity markets move to discount recession, essentially where we have been transitioning to over the last few months. Inflation hedges such as commodity producers moved to price in an economic downturn rather than continued inflation, value stocks had a correction, cyclical recovery stocks were very weak with the majority of consumer stocks now retracing the lows they fell to during the first wave of Covid, small and mid-cap companies underperformed and the USD strengthened further. All of the above moves are acting as a drag on our performance at the moment, of course setting up a very strong recovery wave when economic fears bottom-out.

Positive contributors during the month included our overweight position in China (including Naspers, Baidu and Prosus) and underweight positions in Nvidia and Taiwan Semi.

The main negative contributions were our underweight positions in large, perceived as defensive stocks such as Microsoft and United Health and our overweight consumer cyclicals such as Delta Airlines.

Activity

Our activity is focused on continuing to exploit the ever-larger PVT anomalies that are appearing as the market becomes very risk averse and very fearful of the next recession.

We are also slowly adding to de-rated growth and quality stocks, especially in the world of small and mid-caps which have been aggressively sold off. There continues to be more opportunities in US equities in these areas and we have added to our US exposure including Nike (sold off due to consumer worries) and Warner Brothers Discovery (poor technicals following its spin out of AT&T leaving it on a modest valuation).

We took profits in some of our Energy names early in the month, including a profitable exit from Enerplus and Valero. M&A continues allowing an exit from Mediaset Espana. Indra Sistemas was downgraded to an S4* due to governance issues (the Spanish Government taking effective control of the Board) and we exited.

Outlook

My key message this quarter is that there are some amazing bargains out there. The stocks that make up our hunting ground for global shares are really very cheap now. Small and Mid-Cap stocks are on bargain basements valuations. Any equity that has uncertainty associated with it is very depressed. Our types of shares, namely PVT, Value, Recovery, Multi-Cap and out-of-favour Growth are often stunning value with free cash (or capital) yields that are higher than earnings multiples. I will expand on this in my quarterly report but this is my main message – really, very, very cheap.
